BRITAIN SEEKS UNITY OF THE POWERS ON MANCHURIAN ISSUE

INTERPORT CRICKETER MARRIED

Mr. Alan Reid Weds
Sydney Girl.

CATHEDRAL CEREMONY.

Mr. Alan Reid, the popular Interport cricketer and member of the Hong Kong Cricket Club, was married to Miss Gwendolyn Frances Berrie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Berrie, of Sydney, Australia, in St. John's Cathedral this afternoon. The Dean, the Very Rev. A. Swann officiated at the ceremony.

The bridegroom is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Reid, and is on the staff of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China.

The bride, who was given away by Mr. A. H. Ferguson, looked pretty in a dress of ivory satin, her bridal veil being trimmed with a large bouquet of white roses and Honolulu creepers.

Miss Jose Wolland, in attendance as maid of honour, wore a dress of cream georgette and carried a bouquet of buttercup gladioli.

Mrs. C. A. Stafford-Smith, as Matron of Honour, attended in a dress of floral silk voile.

Mr. Eric M. Bryden, C. A., discharged the duties of best-man.

Subsequently, a reception was held at the Hong Kong Hotel, and was largely attended. The happy couple later left for their honeymoon, the bride's travelling dress being a beige costume with hat and shoes to tone.

Mr. Reid has been a stalwart of the Club first eleven for several seasons, and has played for Hong Kong in Interport matches three times, 1929 and 1931 in Hong Kong, and 1930 at Shanghai. He is one of the very few left hand spin bowlers in the Colony, and is also a hard hitting batsman.

UNEMPLOYED PREPARE TO QUIT LONDON

Means Test Petition
Seized by Police.

LEADERS ARE BITTER.

London, To-day. Abandoning the project of forcing Parliament to receive a deputation, the hunger marchers are preparing to return home. The first batch started for Brighton by motor coach yesterday. Most of the other contingents hope to raise their train fares.

Leaders complain bitterly that the petition, said to contain a million signatures, and protesting against the Means Test, was confiscated by police. It was deposited at Charing Cross Station in the cloak room during yesterday's excitement.

When leaders of the unemployed called to-day they were informed the police had got the document.

There have been numerous police court cases, and many convictions, following the disorders of the past few days. All courts where they are prosecuted are under heavy guard. — Reuter.

"THE FLYING FAMILY"—Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchinson and their daughters, Kathryn and Janet, in London. It will be remembered that the flying-boat in which the Hutchinson family and crew were essaying to cross the Atlantic, was wrecked off the coast of Greenland, the survivors being rescued by the trawler "Lord Talbot."

ARGENTINE WILL RETURN PRINCE'S FRIENDLY CALL.

Vice-President and Party To Pay Visit To Britain.

London, To-day. Through the British Ambassador at Buenos Aires, the British Government has expressed to the Argentine the gratification with which it has learned of the Argentine Government's intention to despatch to London a special mission, headed by the Vice-President of the Republic, Dr. Roen, primarily to return the Prince of Wales' visit to Buenos Aires last year.

The date of the visit is not yet fixed.—British Wireless Service.

Labour Plan Rejected

Commons Defeats Move
To Alter Tariffs.

London, To-day. The House of Commons by a vote of 268 to 57 rejected the Labour clause of Ottawa Preferential Bill providing that there should be nothing in the bill to prevent the Government from reducing the general ad valorem duty of 10 per cent. imposed by the Import Duties Act of 1932.

Mr. Hore Belisha, (Conservative), declared there was nothing in the Bill to prevent Parliament legally reducing any tax. There was nothing sanctioning the agreements for five-year period, either since Parliament remained supreme, though the ministers who signed at Ottawa had a moral obligation to see that they were carried out. This Act of Parliament could be repealed by another Parliament. Therefore no new clause was necessary, he declared. — Reuter.

UNEMPLOYMENT FIGURES SHOW BIG DECREASE.

London, To-day. The monthly unemployment figures, which will be issued this week, will show a drop in unemployment of about 100,000. This is all the more satisfactory because there is usually a seasonal increase in unemployment in the period of the year covered by the return.—British Wireless Service.

Sir Robert and Lady Ho Tung and Miss G. Ho Tung arrived from Europe on board the P. & O. liner Comorin to-day. Sir Robert is proceeding to Macao for a few days before returning to the Colony to attend to his business.

FATE OF JAPANESE PARTY.

Women And Children
Safe.

Harbin, To-day.

The reports that many of the Japanese women and children caught in Manchuli had escaped when Su Ping-wen's troops turned the city over to the Chinese Volunteers are now confirmed, and it has been definitely established that they are on their way to Japan. The reports state that many of them were enabled to evacuate to Matziewsky, in Soviet territory, from where they are now travelling by the Amur Railway to Vladivostok.

This sets at rest the fears long entertained for their safety, but the fate of the Japanese men who remained in Manchuli is still unknown.

At the time Su Ping-wen rebelled against the Manchukuo there were nearly three hundred Japanese residents in Manchuli.—Reuter.

H.M.S. CUMBERLAND LEAVES FOR HOME.

H.M.S. Cumberland, one of the "County" class cruisers of the China Station, left Hong Kong for Home at 9.50 a.m. to-day. She is expected to return to Hong Kong early next year, after being recommissioned and re-fitted for service.

Fourteen Navy Planes Stranded In Mid-Air; Autos Aid Rescue

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 27. A unique drama of the air was played in an impenetrable fog near here early to-night after fourteen Navy aeroplanes had been caught aloft with dwindling gasoline supplies.

Every aviator involved landed without injury but two planes were destroyed in crashes upon reaching the ground, one was burned and several others were overturned and slightly damaged.

The planes were engaged in manoeuvres and were returning to their home field upon the approach of darkness when the fog rolled in from the sea. Three planes landed safely but the next five attempting to land at North Island field crashed up and one was destroyed by fire after the fliers had leaped out.

Shortly before eight o'clock six planes were still in the air and were known to have only an hour's supply of fuel.

Sharp Advances.

DEMAND FOR STERLING.

London, To-day.

The announcement of the Government's £300,000,000 3 per cent. conversion loan issue which is the last of a series of conversion operations without parallel in volume in this or any other country, was received with enthusiasm by the city.

The success of the operations is regarded as an eloquent testimony to the work of financial and economic rehabilitation carried out during the past year enabling the British Government to take the fullest advantage of the conditions of monetary ease prevailing.

Great activity developed in the gilt edged market on the London Stock Exchange and although earlier sharp advances were not fully maintained, quotations remained considerably higher on balance. War Loan assented, closed at 104½, well under best.

The increased demand for sterling and an all-round improvement in rates were recorded on the London Foreign Exchange Market. — British Wireless Service.

BRITAIN'S WAR UNITS DEFENDED

London, To-day.

In view of the re-assembly of the Disarmament Conference the Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, was asked in the House of Commons for an assurance that the Government would not commit themselves to any such proposals as those being advanced for the total abolition of Military and Naval Aviation coupled with International control of Civil Aviation and for abolition of warships of over 10,000 tons without first affording Parliament an opportunity for discussion.

He said it was not intended to make any departure from the normal practice when Governments were engaged in important negotiations. Replying to the question in which reference (Continued on Page 7.)

POLICY ANNOUNCED BY GOVERNMENT

LORDS URGE FIRMNESS
TO ENFORCE PEACE

DIPLOMACY'S OPPORTUNITY

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAS DECLARED ITSELF WITH RESPECT TO THE PROBLEM OF THE SINO-JAPANESE QUARREL IN MANCHURIA. THE GOVERNMENT, ACCORDING TO AN ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY A SPOKESMAN IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS YESTERDAY, WILL ENDEAVOUR TO LEAD THE GREAT POWERS OF THE WORLD INTO A UNITED POLICY WITH REGARD TO THE MANCHURIAN ISSUE.

While declining to discuss the Government's attitude towards the Lytton Report, Lord Hailsham praised that document. Lord Lytton himself made the most significant announcement of the day. He expressed the hope that Sir John Simon, who is Great Britain's chief delegate at Geneva, would use the Commission's Report as his brief.

Other members of the House of Lords offered their comments on the Manchurian situation, referring to the gravity and menace of the situation, and urging a firm handling of the weapons of the world which had been forged to preserve peace.

The attitude of the British Government towards the findings of the Lytton Report were sought by Lord Ponsonby, leader of the Opposition in the opening debate on Manchuria in the House of Lords yesterday. Lord Ponsonby, in a soberly worded speech, highly eulogized the report, especially considering the difficult circumstances surrounding the investigation.

It was clear the question could not be solved by the mere restoration of the "status quo ante," he said, and emphasised great importance to Geneva of the deliberations in Britain. Britain, he said, would give the lead in the solution of the question.

The League had not always acted as promptly as some desired, but had scored a very great, though unspectacular triumph, in averting a war in the Far East and getting the parties to the council table.

Things in Japan were moving and he had reason to believe there was no very enthusiastic support for these outbursts of Japanese military feeling. Without violent language, without making any nation wear a white sheet, he was confident the Great Powers could jointly solve the question in Manchuria.

War Temper Rising.

Lord Lothian speaking, said the greatest question underlying the Manchurian dispute was "whether, in its settlement, we take a further step towards establishing some international system or step back towards inevitable war. He recalled the terms of the Washington Conference of 1921, the Briand-Kollogg Pact, the Stimson Declaration which provided for an extraordinary powerful weapon in dealing with the question, if wisely and

BAD LOANS CHARGED TO REPUBLICANS

Mr. Stimson Answers Democrat Attack.

CAMPAIGN CHIEFS REST.

New York, To-day.

While leaders in the American electoral fight have temporarily retired behind the lines and are recuperating for a final assault, their chief lieutenants, maintain a persistent sniping. Following vigorous exchanges between Senator Carter Glass and Mr. Ogden Mills, Mr. Henry L. Stimson took up the running, and castigated the former's allegation that the Republicans were responsible for the flotation of "an immobile junk" form of foreign issues.

Mr. Stimson denied that the State Department ever recommended the merits of any foreign loans. He advised against any loan by the United States citizens to countries or for purposes contrary to the national interest. He mentioned that after the war the State Department had advised against loans to countries which had not a funded war debt to the United States.

The Fire thus concentrated on Senator Glass was drawn off by Mr. Newton Baker, war-time War Secretary, who attacked the President's "sudden conversion" to the Hawley-Smoot tariff as the greatest danger confronting the country at the present moment. He said the President was never in favour of the policy until the present campaign had commenced.

Mr. Ogden Mills returned to the attack, reflecting upon the sincerity of the Democrats' unqualified pledge to repeal prohibition. He said it was not fulfillable without protracted delay. Mr. Mills added that the Southern States control the Democrats and that they would never agree to a straight repeal, "though they are willing to play that dead dog until after the election."

Wall Street Calm. Betting continues strongly in favour of Mr. Roosevelt and Wall Street apparently has recovered from its alarm at the prospect of his election and is convinced his alleged radicalism is mainly a "pose" to win the votes of Western Progressives.

Mr. Roosevelt has been touring in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Southern Massachusetts while Mr. Hoover has been concentrating on plans for a final tour of the Middle West in an effort to ward off the danger from discontented farmers. It is expected his trip will finish in California, where Mr. Hoover and his wife are registered voters.

Mr. Hoover in a speech at Washington reaffirmed his attitude on prohibition, namely guarantees for those states wishing to remain dry and the total prohibition of the saloon.—Reuter.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR THE COLONY.

Government's Promise Of "Free Places."

Mr. C. P. de Martin, chairman, yesterday informed the Board of Education that the Government had agreed, subject to the attainment of a sufficiently high standard, to grant a limited number of scholarships to be competed for by candidates from non-provided schools sitting for the annual examination for entrance to the upper school of Queen's College or King's College.

The scholarships would take the form of "free places" for three years at one of the above schools.

Sophisticated Simplicity

What The College
Girl Will Wear.

(By Barbara Beaufort).

Paris.
Sophisticated simplicity, as worldly as that of her mother's gowns, distinguishes the party frocks which the college girl will wear to fraternity dances, this winter.

Gone are the ruffles, frills and "jeune fille" design which marked her last year's dance dresses. This year's model is plain, a bit daring and designed with distinction.

Velvets (striped and plain, brilliant and dull), crepes (crinkled, pebbled and flat) and laces touched with a film of wax or a line of golden thread to give them brilliance are all used for the campus girl's party frock.

An extremely slender figure designed with a rather high waist-line and a full instep-length skirt breaking from an easy hipline in the general design. The décolleté is often high in front and only moderately low in the back.

Colours Go To Extremes.

Colours are either extremely dull or gaily brilliant with such hues as henna brown, smoke blue and black offered in contrast to peony red, scarlet, flame-orange and violet.

For the simpler college dances there are frocks of heavily crinkled crepe in henna, smoke blue and black designed on a princess silhouette with a high front décolleté based on a strap shoulder-line fitting close to the throat.

Many of them have little bolero puff sleeved jackets which may be worn with them.

For more formal parties, however, both colours and fabrics are more elaborate. Pastel blue velvets with a garland of silk tea roses outlining the black décolleté, flame coloured crepe (waxed) faced with sweeping skirts, and peony-red crepes designed on a modified empire silhouette are all shown for the smart college girl.

Arrange cake on serving plates, top with peaches, hollow sides up. Fill with ice cream, sprinkle with cocoanut.

Sponge Cake.
6 egg yolks
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup pastry flour
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
6 egg whites, beaten
Beat yolks, add sugar and extracts. Beat two minutes. Fold in rest of ingredients, mixing lightly. Pour to thickness of ½ inch in shallow pan which has been flour-ed. Bake 20 minutes in moderately slow oven. Remove cake from pan when it is cool, cut out circles with two-inch cookie cutter dipped in hot water.

Stuffed Tomato Salad.
6 firm tomatoes
1 cup chopped cabbage
½ cup diced cucumbers
2 tablespoons chopped green peppers
2 tablespoons chopped onions
½ teaspoon salt
2/3 cup salad dressing
Chill ingredients. Peel tomatoes, scoop out part of insides. Mix 1/3 the dressing with rest of ingredients, excepting tomatoes. Stuff tomatoes. Serve on lettuce, top with remaining dressing.

Peanut butter, thinned with cream, makes a nourishing filling to be used for toasted sandwiches.

Women's Drive For Funds

Try To Help The German Navy.

Berlin.
The German Naval Association (Deutscher Flottenverein) and the Naval Association of German Women have issued a joint appeal for the creation of a Niobe Fund which is to provide the funds for the construction of a new training-schooner to replace the recently founded "Niobe."

As the government's financial resources are too limited to set aside the money for such a new ship, and as the diminutive German navy is in dire need of a new training-schooner, this appeal turns to the Germans at home and abroad with the hope of thus securing the necessary funds.

WISDOM OF ELDERS.

Our grandmothers, with their comfortable bank balances and their happy relations with their trustees, would be amazed at our contemporaries' ideas on economy. Instead of sacrificing the necessities of life, they, in times of need, had a queer, old-fashioned habit of giving fewer parties, buying cheaper clothes, and riding in public conveyances.

Maybe they were right!

MOTOR PARTY ON WORLD TOUR.

Conquering Africa
On First Leg.

Four Johannesburg men have set out on a world tour by motor-car, says the "Natal Mercury." They intend to encircle the globe on four wheels. The great adventure started with a modest tour of the Union, when three of the men—S. Goldberg, formerly of London and the Congo; A. Edelstein, described as a Hungarian student with a flair for photography, and H. Mellet, a South African—set out in a Hillman Wizard. Later they are to be joined by H. Kunz, a Swiss mechanic, and a second Hillman, on the real business of "conquering Africa" as the first stage of circumnavigating the globe. Together the four men claim mastery of eleven languages.

Their route through Africa from Johannesburg is via Victoria Falls and Broken Hill to Elizabethville, and then due west through the Congo to Angola and northwards to Dakar, the last British outpost on the North-West coast. If, as seems likely, they are unable to find a way further north along the coast belt they will proceed to Timbuctoo, and follow the recognised road to Gao and across the Sahara to Algiers. Their intention then is to go to England and to proceed through Europe and the Near East to Palestine, and overland to Karachi and India. Since this portion of the trip is remote, their plans are vague, but they speak of continuing through Asia to America.

"HUMBER" HELMET NOVEL FEATURE.

Protects Cars From
"Dirty" Weather.

The rib which is such an attractive feature of the mud wings fitted to Humber cars serves a useful purpose, as well as being ornamental.

"By preventing mud and water flowing to the edges of the wings," says "The Motor," "and from there being blown on to the body, it naturally follows that cars so equipped keep much cleaner than others." The result of observations made on the road proved that the Humber kept a high degree of cleanliness in muddy weather, and after a lengthy run under bad conditions it was found that the rear and sides of the car, which generally become plastered, were in the case of the Humber entirely free of mud stains. The helmeted type of wing, of course, has been a feature of Humber models for several years, and was originally introduced by Thrupp and Maberly, Ltd., the well-known London coach-builders.

The Origin Of The Motor Cycle

Interesting Talk On Cycle Development

CHINA'S "TOURIST TROPHY"

Mr. Kyat Tong, vice-president of the China Associated Motorcyclists, which is promoting the China International Tourist Trophy Trial in October this year from Shanghai to Nanking via Hangchow over the new Shanghai-Nanking Highway, gave a very interesting brief radio address recently at the Amateur Home Station, Kiangse Road.

In brief, Mr. Tong said: "Motor cycling offers much enjoyment as a pastime, and much convenience as a commercial transport, chiefly on account of the reliability of the modern motor cycle and its low cost of maintenance. The present motor cycle has reached such a height of perfection in design and construction that it may be thoroughly relied upon to give satisfactory service under all conditions.

Zenith Of Perfection.

"In order to appreciate the zenith of perfection which the motor cycle has attained, it is interesting to look back to the olden times and to trace the sources which were responsible for the successes of the present day.

"A motor cycle, as its name implies, is a self moving bicycle, therefore, a greater portion of this machine belongs to the bicycle, and the rest to the engine. On account of the rapid improvements of the bicycle from its early designs, we are able to adapt it for a motor attachment. Although from an outward appearance the modern cycle frame may not look the same as that of a bicycle, nevertheless the principle of design and the theory of steering are identical."

"First of all," Mr. Tong continued, "we will deal with the development of the bicycle by outlining a short history from the hobby-horse to the present day safety."

"The first true bicycle was invented by a Frenchman named Neapice in 1816; it was called the Celeripede, or Hobby Horse, and had two equal-sized wooden wheels, with iron tyres connected by a wooden bar. The front wheel could be steered by means of a handlebar connected to the top of the forks in which the wheel revolved. The rider sat on a padded seat on the connecting bar, and propelled himself and the machine along by striking his feet alternately on the ground; in fact it may be said that he ran along sitting down.

Dandy Horse.
"In 1818 an improved dandy horse was invented by Baron Von Drais of Mannheim, and it was called after him the Draisienne; it is said that the baron could get ten miles an hour out of his machine.

"It is difficult to ascertain the exact date when pedals were first fitted to the two-wheeler, and the credit is probably due to one Kirkpatrick Macmillan, who affixed cranks to the back wheel of a hobby horse and connected these to long swinging levers, jointed again to horizontal rods hinged to the cross bar connecting the two wheels. The date must have been about 1840. Macmillan died in 1878.

"Gaven Dalziel made a similar machine in 1846, closely resembling Macmillan's.

Pedals And Cranks.

"In 1866, Lallement fitted pedals and cranks to the front wheel of a bicycle so as to drive same direct, the front wheel also steering; a man named Turner brought a similar machine to London from Paris in 1869, and this was copied by the Coventry Machinists Co. (then makers of sewing machines) and put on the market here, from this time the front wheel increased in size, the back wheel getting proportionately smaller. Then came rubber tyres, and the wire suspension wheel replaced its wooden-spoked predecessor."

This is the first of a series of educational stories on "Bicycles and Motorcycles" to be given every Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the same station by Mr. Tong, who is at the same time the head of Airlaid Limited.

When interviewed by the Press about the definite date for the China International Tourist Trophy Trial, Mr. Tong said that probably the date would be postponed to about a week or ten days later than October 7, 1932. There are already about 40 entries, so a successful trial run is quite assured.

EXPORT DOOR OPEN TO BRITAIN.

Motor Industries See Promise Of Trade.

CRITICISED IN PAST.

British car manufacturers have been subjected to severe criticism in the past for their policy in regard to overseas trade. They were accused, in particular, of failing to investigate local conditions with a view to adapting their designs to requirements in foreign countries and in the various parts of the Empire, and of neglecting to ensure adequate service for their products when sold. Finally, it was stated that the first cost of British vehicles was excessive, particularly in relation to their price in the home market. It can hardly be denied that, in many cases, these criticisms were well founded, and were indeed applicable to a much wider field of industry than the manufacture of motor vehicles. There were, however, particular difficulties to be overcome in the case of the motor trade, since the requirements of the home and foreign user were often widely divergent. So much was this the case in the past that the only way to obtain a footing in the majority of foreign markets was to build a special "colonial" model.

Fortunately for our prospects of export business, changes in conditions both at home and abroad, have placed our manufacturers in a more favourable position. In this country, the blanket of economic depression has effectively smothered a number of the smaller firms, with the result that the bulk of the home trade has tended more and more to get into the hands of a few manufacturers. Again, although actual figures are not available, the financial stringency must have led many members of the wealthier portion of the community to give up cars in the luxury class in favour of mass-produced models, and finally, until quite recently, the home market has continued to expand in spite of the almost universal reduction in personal income. All these factors have favoured the production of a few models in large quantities, rather than a large number in small quantities, and it is probably no exaggeration to say that half the private car trade of the country is now in the hands of two firms. The opportunity thus afforded for reducing costs of production has not been neglected, and the reduction has been passed on to the purchaser in both the home and foreign markets. The economic depression abroad has also assisted British trade, as it has caused attention to be directed to the question of low running expenses, a feature in which the British car is superior to the majority of its competitors. A further factor in our favour is that roads abroad, as in England, have been steadily improving, with the result that the ordinary car as designed for the home market, is now suitable for extensive areas abroad.

The result of these more favourable conditions for the British manufacturer in foreign markets is shown in the relatively small drop in our export trade since the boom year of 1929, as compared with that of our chief competitors, the United States and Canada. Actually, the drop in the export trade of these two countries together for the two years 1930 and 1931 was approximately 68 per cent., while that of Great Britain was only about 40 per cent. Of even greater significance are the figures covering the import of vehicles into the Commonwealth of Australia in April last, as given in a recent return issued by the Department of Overseas Trade. This shows that 447 unassembled chassis, of the value of 38,886l., were imported from the United Kingdom, as against 72 chassis, of the value of 6,047l., from the United States. The imports of bodies and assembled chassis, were equally in our favour, and the whole of the motor cycles imported, to the number of 109, were British.

HUGE CROWDS AT SPEED TEST.

Enthusiasm Follows
Motor Racing.

While the mighty cheering crowd that attended the final speedway test match did not attain the vast proportions mentioned by the papers, it did, however, reach the magnificent total of just over 53,000. The match, of course, formed the outstanding speedway attraction of the year. There was every reason for an enormous crowd; for Australia and England were equal, each with two matches to their credit, and this meeting was to decide the destiny of the speedway "ashes." Such was the magnitude of the crowd that the roads leading to Wembley became choked with cars and motor cycles.

The enthusiasm, to the eyes of those who have not followed speedway racing closely, must have been amazing. It demonstrated once again (says "The Motor Cycle") the hold "the elders" have on the public, and proved—if any proof were needed—that speedway racing, far from being "about to meet its much-prophesied death," is going from strength to strength.

(Continued from previous column.) made. The same trend is shown in the exports to New Zealand. The imports into that country for the first six months of the present year were actually the lowest for eleven years, but the preference for British vehicles was well maintained, as 1,415 such vehicles, to the value of 247,576l., were imported out of a total of 1,883 cars, valued at 267,143l. There is thus every indication that if and when world trade revives, British manufacturers will be in a favourable position to secure their fair share of the world's markets, and that the opportunity will exist to exceed greatly the modest optimum figures of 42,021 cars exported in 1929.—Engineering.

"NEW MORALS FOR OLD"—QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"New Morals For Old," an M.G.M. production adapted from John van Druyten's stage play, is playing to a well filled house at the Queen's Theatre.

Robert Young, who is cast as the son and whose ambition it is to become a painter, is well portrayed, Margaret Perry, who takes the part of the daughter, is inclined to over-act the part.

Lewis Stone, although wrongly cast, gives an excellent interpretation of the rigid father with a kindly heart. He shares acting honours with Laura Hope Crewes who is excellent as the mother.

David Newell, Jean Hersholt, Mitchell Lewis and Elizabeth Patterson all fill minor roles.

A comedy and Hearst's Newsreel complete a good programme.

"AMATEUR DADDY"—KING'S THEATRE.

Warner Baxter, whose memorable performance with Janet Gaynor in "Daddy Long Legs" is still fresh in one's mind, assumes a fatherly role in Fox's production "Amateur Daddy" the current attraction at the King's Theatre.

Baxter is cast as a young hard-working American construction engineer—the typical kind-hearted bachelor so characteristic of everyday life. He falls in love with Marion Nixon, who did good work in "After Tomorrow," and becomes an "amateur daddy." The director, John Blystone, has treated the film with the right touch that gives it a very human appeal.

The film is taken from Mildred Cram's novel "Scotch Valley," and the cast also includes Rita LaRoy and William Pawley. Recommended!

"POSSESSED"—STAR THEATRE.

Joan Crawford and Clark Gable are cast in the leading roles in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picture "Possessed," now playing at the Star Theatre. It is the story of a country maid who goes to New York to better her position. She is lured by a rising politician (Gable) with whom she is intimate for three years. He loves her but does not propose marriage until the eve of the election for governorship. He slaps her face and sends her out.

Joan Crawford acts with much emotion throughout. Recommended!

"THE LOST SQUADRON"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

The self-sacrificing brotherhood of men, air thrills galore, and a glorious romance are combined in the RKO-Radio Pictures "The Lost Squadron" now showing at the Central Theatre.

Richard Dix and a remarkable supporting cast appear in this dramatic air-thriller which is about the making of aviation movies in Hollywood.

Based on the stirring adventures of the film stunt aviators—men who risk their lives for the sake of injecting thrills in pictures—the film tells the story of these nerveless fliers and supply thrills in plenty.

Robert Armstrong, Joel McCrea, Mary Astor, Dorothy Jordan and Ralph Ince appear in the supporting cast.

The first Cantonese talking film "Two Orphans" is now showing at the Oriental Theatre. Wu San is cast in the leading role, and the production was produced by the United Motion Picture Industrial Ltd.

OFFICIAL SOURCES.

"CARNIVAL"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

"Carnival," a super film and one of the most outstanding British pictures of the year will be seen on November 6 at the Central Theatre. The main features of this unusual film are the melodramatic sequences which have been deftly woven with rhythmic music played by a fine band, into some of the most colorful and artistic scenes which have yet been seen. Courageously mounted, beautifully acted and produced, it certainly deserves the praises showered upon it when at the Tivoli, London, where by the way, it broke box-office records.

The Venetian scenes, some in colour, are superlatively lovely, and Herbert Wilcox, the director, has brilliantly succeeded in imbuing the spirit of Carnival throughout the film. Matheson Lang has his original role, in which he is the magician, and Dorothy Beuchier proves a lovely and talented actress.

THEATRE USHER AVERTS ALARM.

Seat Cushion Catches Fire During Play.

A minor sensation was caused in the Central Theatre last night during the 9.20 p.m. performance, when a seat in the back stalls of the theatre caught fire.

The incident caused a considerable stir among the adjacent audience, but one of the attendants seized the smouldering cushion and carried it out before anyone was really alarmed. It is thought that someone in the dress circle or upper circle dropped a cigarette end into the auditorium. The picture was not interrupted.

SAILOR PAYS WOMAN COMPENSATION.

Assault Charge Is Withdrawn.

An altercation on the third floor of a Wanchai flat last night, involving a young American sailor and an elderly Chinese woman, whom it is alleged the seaman struck, was aired in Central Police Court this morning, before Mr. Schofield. Malry Theodore Dunn, 22, of the U.S.S. Black Hawk, was charged with assault.

Sub-inspector McClelland of the Wanchai Police Station, prosecuting, said that before entering the Court an officer of the U.S. Navy had approached him requesting that the charge be withdrawn. Defendant was willing to pay a compensation. He had consulted the Superintendent, who had no objection to the withdrawal of the case, as it was not serious.

At about 7.30 last night, he said, the complainant was coming out of the kitchen on the third floor of 116, Wanchai Street, and met the defendant, who said something in English which she did not understand. She replied in Chinese, and this apparently provoked the defendant who struck her.

Police whistles were blown and a great commotion created. Dunn ran down the stairs, being chased by the woman and two other inmates. He ran along Johnston Road and stopped near the Garden Theatre, where a large crowd had gathered. A European Sergeant came on the scene and took both parties to the Station.

The defendant had been in the Navy for four years and had an exemplary character.

After a short adjournment, the complainant stated she was willing to withdraw the case and accept compensation in the sum of $15.

The case was accordingly withdrawn.

The secret in the real heart of genuine Lipton tea and its replacement with inferior quality tea by a Chinese cook boy employed at 11, Leighton Hill Road, Happy Valley, was revealed in the Central Police Court this morning, when he was charged before Mr. W. Schofield with the theft of a pound of the beverage leaves. He was fined $50 or 6 months' hard labour.

The small but mighty bee has finally been pacified, it was revealed recently by Dr. Isay Balinkin, faculty member of the University of aid of ultra-violet rays, has been enabled to gentle the angry and hot-tempered queen bee who, it is claimed, causes the rest of the hive to buzz off on belligerent flights and destroy their honey producing qualities. Dr. Balinkin has patented his process which is known technically as "irradiation." He claimed, the process made the queen bee more prolific.During the period of economic depression, suicides in Berlin increased steadily and progressively.

According to the city's statistical department, 1,084 persons took their lives during the first six months this year. This is an increase of 142 suicides over the corresponding period of 1931, and of 159 over that of the year 1930.The latest excavations in Ostia, Rome's harbour, uncovered a marble slab on which the inscriptions of fifty lines are devoted to an account of the remarkable events in Trojanreign. Professor Calza believes that this is part of the so-called Fasti Annali or the official gazette, of those times. This discovery which it is hoped may be the precursor of others will lead to interesting light on the history and manners of the Trojan epoch.

Four More Years Of President Hoover Jubilation Among The United States "Wets"

"PROHIBITION DEAD"

There is jubilation in the camp of America's "wets." Frantic consternation grips the "drys." Prohibition, one of the most daring social experiments in the world's history, has been dealt its death-blow.The blow has been dealt by Herbert Hoover, the Republican President, in his speech accepting re-nomination for the Presidency.The Eighteenth Amendment may never be wiped entirely from the constitutional slate because of the intricate system of State legislatures, but Prohibition, as it exists to-day, is more dead than the proverbial doornail, for both Republicans and Democrats are now pledged to put the issue before the people.The chief difference between the platforms of the Democrats and Republicans is that the former are virtually committed to repeal, which would mean a return to the saloon.
This may be impossible to attain.

Big "Dry" Campaign.

The Republicans, on the other hand, are for local control by the various States of the Union with some form of Federal marketing, possibly like the Canadian system, where the Government control distribution, but the provinces have the option of remaining "dry" if they choose.So another year may see legal beer flowing through the open gates, while there will be heavy imports of wines.The attitude of the leaders of the "drys," in view of Hoover's speech, is interesting. They are considering undertaking a huge advertising campaign in the country at a cost of $200,000 a year for ten years to develop public sentiment against the old notorious type of American saloon and to obtain enlarged Federal control over distribution of liquor in States that desire to go "wet."Many leading industrialists are reported to be supporting this movement to prevent a return to the saloon.Favourable Impression.
Hoover's Acceptance Speech has been favourably received throughout America. It is regarded as sane common sense and political doctrine calculated to swing to him many wavering votes. Wall Street still backs Hoover for re-election. The fact of the matter is that expert political opinion is saying, "Four More Years of Hoover."This is disappointing to millions of American voters who wanted a change, especially after 12 years in which the Democrats have been "outside, looking in."Possibly, too, this feeling may exist in England, where a more liberal foreign policy might be expected from Roosevelt, in contrast to the rather negative results of America's recent dealings with Europe.In any case, Mr. Hoover has clearly indicated his willingness to consider Debs revision, so, no matter who is elected, the question will probably be settled in some fashion after November, although cancellation is highly improbable.If Governor Roosevelt is elected President his intimate associates declare that one of his first acts, almost immediately after election, will be to visit Moscow.The tall, liberal-minded Governor of New York State is known to be exceedingly interested in the development of strong relations between Soviet Russia and America, not only for their effect on American trade but also on the diplomatic situation in the Far East.A personal visit to Russia would be a real sensation in this country, but Roosevelt's decision has not yet been made public.Roosevelt would have ample precedent for such action. It will be recalled that Hoover visited South America in 1928, ostensibly to create commercial goodwill in the Latin-American Republics. Roosevelt's visit to Moscow would be for similar reasons.It has been advised that Moscow's weather in November might be unsuitable to his bone too robust physique, but the Governor discounted this and is quite eager to make the trip. If he does, he will certainly call in on Paris and London, but after the Moscow jaunt, not before.Besides dealing with commercial relations Roosevelt's visit would equally be devoted to a Far Eastern approchement.

Relations With Japan.

It is undeniable that relations between Japan and America are causing grave concern to all students of America's international problems.
Many observers, both in the Government and outside, are not backward in expressing their private opinions —very frankly pessimistic—that continued peace in the Pacific area is uncertain.One needs only to review the "nervy" pronouncements of Mr.
Henry Stimson, the Secretary of State, during the past two years, to see which way the wind is blowing.Franklin D. is an old navy man.
As a graduate of the Annapolis Naval Academy and a former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, he has a keen appreciation of the naval possibilities involved in the triangular Chinese-Japanese-Russian situation. It may be taken for granted that if Mr. Roosevelt is elected American naval strength will not be allowed to deteriorate.On this vital question Mr.
Hoover's present Administration is showing much more concern about stability in the Pacific than previously. Many of the President's advisers, including leading New York bankers interested in foreign trade and finance, have sharply changed their position lately. They are now favouring some kind of non-political commercial arrangement between the United States and Soviet Russia.

Winter And The Hungry.

Relief for America's thousands of hungry and destitute is being organised on a grand scale by Bernard McFadden, the somewhat eccentric publisher of physical culture magazines. He is establishing "one cent" (half-penny) restaurants, where, he claims, nourishing meals will be obtained for four cents.
More elaborate "table d'hôte" dinners, consisting of soup, meat, salad, fish, currant-bread, prunes and coffee can be had for ten cents.The outstanding popular dish will be hot cracked wheat with brown sugar at a half-penny a bowl.Other typical items on the menu of these dining-halls are soup ½d., creamed codfish on toast ½d., meat cakes two for 2½d., and so on. His first restaurant is feeding six thousand people daily. It is a large, well-decorated place like a first-class restaurant.It has its "Blue Room," "Green Room" and "Red Room," and the chief "chef" was formerly on the staff of the exclusive Waldorf-Astoria Hotel!It is an intriguing venture, and one that has even tempted Society to investigate. Did not Mrs. W. K.
Vanderbilt dine there last week?McFadden believes that he can feed 10,000 daily this winter. He is starting another restaurant in New York of the same type, and one in Boston.The idea is spreading throughout the country, and the publisher claims that anybody can eat comfortably and "respectably" for a dollar (four shillings) a week.

CHINA'S THREE YEAR PLAN.

Proposed Factories For Canton Government.

Mr. Lam Wan-kol, Commissioner of Construction to the Canton Government, has instructed Mr.
Chan Yui-din to submit an estimate for the proposed erection of a sulphuric acid factory and a bleaching powder factory which have been provided for in the three year industry plan.The estimate for the bleaching powder factory calls for $2,000,000, and the sulphuric acid factory for $1,000,000, the work on which will be started on within the next three months.

GERMAN QUOTA PUTS CHECK ON FARM IMPORTS

Reprisals Feared From Neighbour States.

MAY HURT CREDIT.

Berlin, To-day. In defiance of all opposition, the Government has decided to introduce the "quota system" on agricultural imports.

The countries most affected will be Holland, Italy, France and Denmark, who, it is feared, will adopt reprisals immediately. The "quota system" is one which places restrictions, on the amount of products imported, either by setting limits for value or bulk.

Economic authorities have condemned the move, warning the Government that such a departure would injure the nation's credit seriously.

German economists, however, consider the advantages outweigh the risks. The quota will keep more money in circulation at home and materially aid the farmers, they believe. — Reuter.

To-morrow's short story will be a humorous tale by C. L. Hales, "Casey's Banking Account."

Exodus Commences.

London, To-day. Unemployed marchers whose demonstrations during the past week have led to disturbances on three occasions, began to leave London yesterday for their homes by motor coach and train. Most of them have been maintained while in London at the institutions of public assistance committees.

The Home Secretary, Sir John Gilmour, gave an account in the House of Commons of the disturbances Tuesday night when, following meeting in ten parts of the metropolis, demonstrators proceeded to Parliament Square, which had to be cleared by the Police.

Later a crowd numbering about 3,000 gathered in Trafalgar Square and following the outbreak of disorders on the outskirts, it became necessary for Police to draw truncheons and disperse the gathering. The crowd returned later but the Square was then cleared without batons being used. Five shop windows were broken near Trafalgar Square and some damage was done in other parts of the city.

44 Casualties. Twelve Police and 32 other persons were injured, but none of them seriously. Arrests totalled 41. Prisoners were dealt with by Magistrates yesterday. In some cases sentences of six months' imprisonment were imposed, a few were fined but in most cases remands were granted for further inquiries.

Sir John Gilmour, replying to a supplementary question said he thought the House and country would realise the ineptitude of these demonstrations and that the Government would consider means of preventing them.—British Wireless Service.

was made in particular to Article 16 of the League Covenant and to the Government's attitude towards the protocol, the Prime Minister assured the House that the Government would not involve the country in further naval or military commitments in Europe without the consent of the House.

When asked for a specific declaration that nothing was designed for the abolition of the Air Force without the permission of the House, the Prime Minister said that the Government must have complete freedom in the negotiation which, however, would be conducted with the full knowledge of the House and that with the House final consent remained.—British Wireless Service.

ROOSEVELT CAMP SURE OF VICTORY

Anticipate Majority In All States.

BETTING FOR DEMOCRATS.

New York. Betting odds in New York indicated a strong conviction in the country that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for the presidency, will be successful in the elections next month.

Some of the current odds were as follows:—

That Mr. Roosevelt will be elected, 2½ to 1.

That Mr. Roosevelt will carry New York, 6 to 5.

That Mr. Roosevelt will carry California, 2 to 1.

That Mr. Roosevelt will receive 150 more electoral votes than Hoover, even money.

San Francisco, Oct. 26. Current election betting in San Francisco:—

That Mr. Roosevelt will be elected, 3 to 1.

That Mr. Roosevelt will carry California by 225,000 votes, even money.

That Mr. Roosevelt will carry New York by 125,000 votes, even money.

That Mr. Roosevelt will carry New York, 10 to 5.

After Every State.

New York. Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt confidently told Democratic headquarters workers here to-day that "Jim Farley was right in saying we are going after all 48 states."

The presidential nominee, back from an eight-day tour which took him through 17 states of the Middle West and South, said he would speak Monday night at Boston when President Hoover is speaking at New York.

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Al Smith, the 1928 standard bearer, are to speak from the same platforms Friday and Saturday nights, at the academy in Brooklyn and Madison Square Garden in New York City, demonstrating that the breach between the former rivals has been healed.

Mr. Farley is the chairman of the Democratic national committee and engineer of the campaign which won the nomination for the New York Governor at the Chicago convention.

Mr. Hoover's Plans.

Washington.

President Hoover is to wage an intensive speaking campaign over the week-end, only ten days before the election, in an effort to clinch the vote of the East and pivotal Middle Western states.

Details of the programme were announced to-day at the White House.

Mr. Hoover is to deliver four addresses on Monday, speaking approximately 15 minutes each at Baltimore and Philadelphia and more than twice as long at Newark before delivering an hour's address Monday night at Madison Square Garden.

The original plan for a passive front-porch campaign abandoned, the President will make eight appearances altogether before his Madison Square Garden speech.

WORLD FLYERS BACK IN COLONY.

Mr. Arthur Loew, the film magnate, and his two companions who are making a tour of the world by ship and aeroplane, arrived back in the Colony in their machine, "The Spirit of Fun," landing at Kai Tak aerodrome shortly before noon to-day.

They have been visiting Shanghai and Japan, and left the northern port this morning, taking a little over four hours on the journey.

Mr. Loew and his companions arrived in the Colony from French Indo-China on October 22, having flown from Australia, and departed for Shanghai on October 23.

FRESH, FINE.

The Royal Observatory's weather report for to-day states:—

The anti-cyclone continues over N. China and Japan.

Moderate to fresh monsoon will prevail along the south coast of China and over the Northern China Sea.

Forecast:—North-east winds, fresh; fine.

About 40 students of the Kwang Chow University came to Hong Kong yesterday. They are visiting factories and education institutions here to-day.

REVENGE AT LAST.

by Henri Barbusse

"NINE, ten!" droned the referee through the scrupulous silence.

They carried Phil McCue away motionless. Then a huge uproar lifted the roof of the basement room and its smell of wild beasts, for here—about fifty years ago now—the sensational prize fight had just ended between Phil McCue, champion of Australia, and Otis Yerre, champion of the Pacific Coast, and idol of San Francisco.

So the gentlemen amateurs of the 'Frisco ring gave themselves up wholeheartedly to cheering their big Yerre, who had just put McCue to bed so thoroughly, after wiping out so many other heavy-weights of equal or less celebrity, at the Mechanics' Hall or Woodward's Pavilion.

All the same, and on both sides, there were some experts of the noble art who thought that big Yerre had hit rather hard at the end. McCue was a good sort, and a fighter. Brave and prodigiously generous, he did not deserve such severe punishment. By the sixth round he was no longer a boxer. He seemed rather a man decapitated, who had his head put on again, and been set up on his feet. With drooping arms he oscillated to right and left, as a baboon does. Then, instead of breathing on him, big Yerre drew back a pace, waited and took aim; and his left arm hooked the queer figure's carotid artery with a force that nocturnal burglars might yearn to have for the persuasion of locked doors.

Naturally, McCue collapsed on the ground with a noise of dislocation; and no less naturally he died forty-eight hours later, while still unconscious, and vomiting blood. Thus may a champion act towards those who are rightly called "boiled fish," but not towards honourable adversaries.

Big Yerre continued his triumphant career. A star in the West at twenty-eight. He out-classed all, one after another. Never was he knocked out. Twice he made a drawn battle of it—and more! Four times he did not get the referee's decision. But when one carefully reads again the controversy that the master evolved in the journals of the day, one realises that in the case of those meetings when his superiority was disputed there were intrigues and dirty doings on which it is better not to dwell.

Ten years, twenty years went by. He continued to be emperor of the ring, the Invincible. He still had his huge shoulders like a glorious burden, and his muscles were at least as hard as those of the gladiator who makes his perennial pose in the National Museum.

After being champion of the world, as is well known, for five following years, he only lost the title in the sixth year by his neglect of training. With one voice the sporting Press of two worlds declared that he would have done with Gus Gibson, as with the others if he had wished. But he preferred at that date to take it easy.

Then he had enough of being always victor, or never really beaten. Gradually he withdrew, and when at sixty he announced his definite retirement from boxing in favour of running a tavern in New York, our big Yerre was still the Invincible. Never had he bitten the dust of the ring. Always had he been standing at the end of each fight. He had kept himself as superbly upright as a statue that is bolted to its pedestal, the statue of a smiter of men. Glory to our great Otis Yerre from the nation and the world!

The news of his retirement was beginning to get round when J. S. Floyd, the Canadian manager, took the floor one fine day and launched on him a challenge that was almost an insult. The blood of the strenuous champion boiled, and forthwith he besought the indispensable Jim Sharp to arrange the terms of a meeting between himself and the unknown boxer in whose name Floyd had just expressed himself in offensive terms. And the spectators howled with glee—once more they were to see the great old Yerre in the ring!

The adversary who thus forced the veteran to give battle, a young man called Dick McCue, was the son of the man whom Yerre had once upon a time so knocked out that into the death of Warner Maules Friend, who was found with a bullet wound in his head on the morning of October 24.

At the time of his father's violent death Dick was quite young. Later he learned the details of the last fight, and in his childish heart there grew an immense hate for the formidable brute, who had needlessly orphaned him, and a stubborn hunger for vengeance.

Patiently, modestly, he trained himself, and avoided the booths and towns where clamorous posters multiplied the name of the accused crack. He travelled Australia, England and France, which was beginning to awake from its apathy of anti-sport and at last to understand great ideas. He attained splendid and intelligent strength. When he believed himself of sufficient might to beat down the enemy, he went in search of him, and succeeded in bringing him back into the arena by the means I have related.

In this fight—an unforgettable one, by the Thunderer!—the conditions were not fair and equal. The difference in age was too great, there's no denying it. Compact and solid as the old oak tree showed himself, perfect as was the structure of the matchless champion's arms, the fight began badly for him. A great fear crept into the hearts of the good citizens. It was hardly likely, after all, that the antiquated machinery of the old man could stand against such youthful vigour. Was the spotless glory of Otis Yerre going to be spoiled by a knockout?

No! The old grey bear triumphed again! I will not describe to you the incidents of the most dramatic prize fight I have ever seen. But I cannot help mentioning the two on his jaw in the first round that got his adversary "groggy" at once; nor the two swings in the second round—a right on the ear and another in the stomach; or the finishing blow—the irresistible straight on the solar plexus.

In short, incredible as it may seem, Will Eden was put to sleep like a nursing—he had dropped his real name in view of his avenging intent—and hired himself to a hair-dresser—somewhere in the province.

After this fight, Otis Yerre left the rope-encircled stage for ever. What an affecting scene was the farewell ceremony! Dan Simons, though he had been hangman at Detroit, wept. Yerre made a speech, and we all of us drank for three days, as though finally to banish thirst.

In the clean sunlight of April no place is so pretty as Hockney Hill. There are little paths, as straight as though drawn on paper; glistening pebbles, like eggs of painted china; and turf so fine that you might upholster furniture with it.

A very old man came and sat down in one of the most tenderly green corners of Hockney Hill. Though colossal, he was all broken down, and he wagged an enormous white head that you would take at a distance for the scalped skull of a lion. The prodigious ruin let himself fall on a green seat, and looked at the fields and the gardens with blue eyes that wept all alone in the depth of sockets where one could bury his fist.

His attention was drawn by a little object that moved along the path, and seemed to be drawing near. "He, he, ha, ha," stuttered the old man in amusement.

His eyes, still of use, discovered when the little object was ten paces away that it was a child of five or six years, who held his clogs in his hand as he toddled along.

"The child went straight up to the old man and planted himself before him. 'You are Otis Yerre?' he demanded.

"My word, it's very likely!" laughed the jovial dodderer.

"Well," said the child, "I'm Bob McCue, the grandson of Phil and the son of Jack. And I'm going to knock you out!"

"So saying," he squared himself for fight.

Somewhat abashed, the old captain half-opened a gleaming mouth. He shut it again to swallow a painful awing. Then, smacking—he collected a double hook. Painfully he lifted his huge and fleshless hands in defence; he attempted a slow and uncertain reply, but he was mastered, hammered, borne down by the diminutive descendant of his victims—so thoroughly that he groaned, rolled bleeding down, and lay with his face to the ground—motionless.

Very gravely the child counted out ten. And as the ruins of the old man made no movement, the conqueror stood on tiptoe, gave a little cocker of victory, and went away.

FINAL SOCCER INTERPORT TRIAL TO BE STAGED ON TUESDAY

MULLANE SURE OF A PLACE

GOOD DEFENSIVE TACTICS IN INTERPORT TRIAL

PODMORE'S FINE DISPLAY

PROBABLE ELEVEN LACK COMBINATION AND FAIL BADLY.

(By OUTSIDE LEFT.)

THE STERLING DISPLAY OF MULLANE, THE BORDERERS FULL BACK, WAS THE OUTSTANDING FEATURE OF THE INTERPORT SOCCER TRIAL AT SOOKUNPOO YESTERDAY. ON HIS PRESENT FORM MULLANE SHOULD HAVE LITTLE DIFFICULTY IN GETTING INTO THE SELECTED ELEVEN TO PARTNER STRANGE.

Judging the game from a critical angle it lacked sparkle and was very tame. The Interport Trial eleven were eleven individual players with little pretence at combination, and very few of the players lived up to their reputations. Next to Mullane, Podmore was the most conspicuous player, but it is understood that he will be unable to make the trip even if selected.

The third Interport trial soccer game against the Army, was held yesterday afternoon at the Army ground at Sookunpoo, the game resulting in a draw of 3-3.

For an interport trial the game was poor, both teams being very slow, although at times there were flashes of sparkling play. Both teams were not at full strength, the interport team being without Barber at centre half, Chen Sui Hong at outside right and Morrison at left back.

The game in general was devoid of any first class football, being played in a spiritless manner.

On the run of the play the Army should have run out easy winners, but then again, their forwards did not take much trouble over such minute matters as "scoring with only the goal keeper to beat and plenty of time to do it in".

RODGER'S GOOD DISPLAY. The interport trial team were very weak in spots. Rodger in goal was good and had a safe pair of hands, and was quick in anticipating the moves of the Army forwards with the ultimate result that he very often saved what looked like certain goals.

J. RODGER. Mullane was the outstanding player on the field. His spoiling tactics were excellent and he put in a tremendous amount of work smothering the Army forwards. He should be a certainty for the team. Martin was weak in support of Mullane and was very often erratic. Of the halves, both Tong Kwan and Beltrao worked hard and played splendidly, the former spoiling well and used his head to advantage on many an occasion when the situation proved dangerous, and the latter was quick in getting away from his man, but slow in feeding his forwards.

HOWE TOO SLOW. Of the forwards much must be said. First of all Strange was a complete failure at outside right, being much too slow for a winger, and, not having had the experience of really fast play, was often out of the picture. Ridley also played poorly in the first half, making no attempt to cover his man and was too slow in snapping up passes with the result that he very often bungled easy chances. He, however, improved considerably in the second half and was responsible for some nice openings.

Howe played a poor game at Howe took possession and racing a way passed neatly to Strange, but the winger was much too slow, allowing Souter to take the ball in his stride to clear. There was much mid-field play in which Beltrao and Tong Kwan were conspicuous, the latter using his head to advantage.

HOWE.

the ball past the left upright with Rodger out of the way. The Army team were pressing and Rodger was given an anxious time, but he brought off some good saves, his anticipation being uncanny.

DUNCAN WEAK LINK.

The interport halves were working hard to break up the attack, but Duncan proved the weak link in the line. Lakeman sent in some fine drives, which, had any other goalkeeper been present, would have materialised.

Mullane was the obstacle which the Army forwards tried hard to dislodge, but the little man made rings round them and saved desperate situations time and again, Tong Kwan lending a helping hand.

Lakeman was responsible for the best opening of the game when he neatly took the ball from Tong Kwan and sent in nicely through between Mullane and Martin for Higgins. The centre was, however, slow in getting off the mark and Rodger reached the ball first to kick clear just in time.

INTERPORTERS AHEAD.

With the ball in mid-field and Beltrao in possession, the interport team really got going, the latter player sending the ball out to Baldry, who with a twist rounded Allan and sent in a beautiful centre for Howe to snap up, but he bungled, tapping the ball to Ridley who was out of position.

JONES opened the scoring after twenty five minutes play. Howe passed to Jones, who, dribbling through the defence, sent in a stinging shot from about twenty yards out, at which Heath made little effort to save.

Just before the interval the Army equalised in a tame manner. Higgins raced for the ball and just managed to centre for CHANNING to head it into the net, having no opposition.

Half time:—

Interport XI 1
Army 1
The start of the second half saw the Army press, Duncan missing with a first-timer from Higgins. The Army, determined to take the lead, gave the interport team a hard time of things, Kirkham sending over some fine centres, but Mullane always came to the rescue, and on one occasion when Rodger was out of position, diverted the ball from its goal-ward path with the back of his head.

HOWE put his side in the lead a few minutes later when he converted a neat pass from Ridley, but it was a very tame shot which should have been stopped.

Although they were one up on the Army the interport eleven were having no easy time, LAKEMAN equalising a few minutes later with a glorious first timer, which beat Rodger all the way.

PLAY DETERIORATES.

Ten minutes from time the interport eleven went further ahead when RIDLEY, taking excellent advantage of a fine centre by Baldry, had no difficulty in converting with a header.

The Army, however, got on level terms once again when HIGGINS, at last making some effort to put the ball in the right place, beat Rodger with a fast ground shot from Kirkham's centre.

The game concluded with the Army pressing weakly. Mr. Darling of the Royal Navy lined up the following players.

BUSINESS REASONS MAY ROB HOWE OF "CAP."

Finest Marksman in Colony.

ALBERT HOWE, THE COLONY'S SELECTED CENTRE-FORWARD, MAY BE UNABLE TO MAKE THE TRIP NORTH ON ACCOUNT OF BUSINESS REASONS.

IN AN INTERVIEW WITH THE CHINA MAIL LAST NIGHT HOWE STATED THAT THERE WAS A POSSIBILITY THAT HE MIGHT BE UNABLE TO MAKE THE TRIP THOUGH OF COURSE HE WAS MAKING EVERY ENDEAVOUR TO OVERCOME THE DIFFICULTY.

HOWE IS AN EXPERIENCED FOOTBALLER, HAVING REPRESENTED TIENTSIN IN INTERPORT ENCOUNTERS. HE ARRIVED IN THE COLONY AT THE BEGINNING OF LAST SEASON HERALDED BY A BIG NORTHERN REPUTATION, AND FULLY LIVED UP TO THAT REPUTATION BY NETTING EIGHT TIMES AGAINST ST. JOSEPH'S IN HIS DEBUT GAME. HE HEADED THE PREMIER DIVISION GOAL-SCORING LIST LAST SEASON, AND PROVED HIMSELF BEYOND ALL DOUBT AS THE BEST MARKSMAN IN THE COLONY. THIS SEASON HE HAS BEEN BADLY HANDICAPPED BY INJURIES.

Formidable Shanghai

HONG KONG MUST IMPROVE.

Three Players Lack Qualification.

(By Westerner.)

Commenting upon the chances of Hong Kong against Shanghai, one is immediately impressed by the strength of the probable northern team.

They do not have to worry over securing the necessary leave for players, whereas Hong Kong are unfortunate in this respect. A. V. Gosano one of the Colony's best centre forwards is unable to make the trip north, and Jack Pote-Hunt, who dazzled Hong Kong enthusiasts by his display for Shanghai in the last interport, has not the residential qualification required for inclusion. This brilliant half back is now stationed in Canton, and has been lost to football for the time being. Ip Pak-wa and Fung King-cheung, two of South China's best forwards, are also in the same position. Their Canton residence places them out of consideration when inclusion would be certain if they were available.

Shanghai will be turning out a very formidable side, which will most certainly include such players as S. V. Gash, who will probably skipper the team; L. F. Stokes, the cricketer who is a good back; Y. Y. Chow an excellent keeper; Angus Turner of the Police, who will fill an inside position in the forward line; and Darky Chen who will probably fill the other inside berth.

On yesterday's play in the trial the Hong Kong Interport team will have to buck up considerably before thinking of entering into an interport with the northern team whose renown as regards class football is well known throughout the Far East.

Hong Kong Interport Trial Team:—Rodger (Club); Mullane (Borderers) and Martin (Club); Tong Kwan (S. China), Beltrao (S. Joseph's) and A. Duncan (Club); E. Strange (Club), Ridley (Lincolns), Howe (Club), Jones (Borderers) and Baldry (Lincolns).

Army:—Heath, Allan and Souter, Morgan, Pardue and Podmore, Kirkham, Channing, Higgins, Lakeman and Duncan.

Final Interport Trial XI

BARBER, BLISS AND B. GOSANO INCLUDED.

Prospective Eleven Selected.

(By Easterner.)

The Selection Committee of the H.K.F.A. were last night unable to make a final decision as to the composition of the side to visit Shanghai on November 22, and a further trial is to be played on Tuesday.

Howe, the Club centre-forward who has already been selected, is being given a rest on Tuesday, and Mullane, the Borderers' brilliant full back who is assured of a place, though he has been not definitely selected as yet, is also being rested.

B. Gosano has been given his place on the wing in the final trial and should receive excellent support from Wong Mei-shun, but the South China player will have to play above his usual form if he is to displace Dominy at inside right. Suen Kam-shun, is being persevered with and his selection will come as no surprise in view of his brilliant tactical schemings. He should make an admirable partner for Baldry, who is almost certain to be selected.

Bliss, the brilliant young Kowloon half back is making a well-earned return and should be able to force himself into the side. Barber, who was injured recently, is also making a well-earned return and will undoubtedly be selected for the trip. His ground passing is both fast and accurate and his defensive methods are above reproach.

The omission of Beltrao, after his good display in the first half yesterday, will occasion surprise among his supporters, but it is quite clear that the St. Joseph's half does not possess the necessary stamina for a hard and gruelling interport. Tong Kwan might have been given another trial as he is quite as good as Duncan, though lacking the Club player's amazing stamina, but making up for it in speed. Jones has failed to impress the selectors, and they have passed him over in favour of Suen. The Borderer played a great game yesterday in partnership with Baldry, and his omission will prove a great disappointment. If Suen fails, however, Jones will get his chance I feel sure.

The best team that I can select, judging each player on his best performance, would be as follows: Rodgers; Mullane, Strange; Bliss, Barber, Duncan; Gosano, Dominy, Howe, Suen Kam-shun and Baldry.

The following have been selected to play in the last Interport Trial on the Caroline Hill ground at 4 p.m. on Tuesday when the Royal Navy will provide the opposition:—

Rodger (Club)

Martin (Club)

Strange (Club)

Bliss (Kowloon)

Barber (Lincolns)

Duncan (Club)

B. Gosano (St. Joseph's)

Wong Mei-shun (S. China)

Johnson (Police)

Suen Kam-shun (Athletic)

Baldry (Lincolns)

Reserves:—Mullane (Borderers), Beltrao (St. Joseph's), and Jones (Borderers).

Third Division Provides The "Big" Match

Borderers Should Overcome St. Joseph's In Vital Game

STRANGE PIVOT AGAINST S. CHINA (By Spot Kick.)

THE most interesting game in Saturday's League programme will be the Third Division game between the Borderers and St. Joseph's. Both teams are undefeated to date and the result of the game may well decide the championship, though the Service Corps have still more than a passing interest.

In the premier league the best match of the day will be that between the Lincolns and the Artillery and the newcomers should prove just strong enough to take both points.

The Second Division provides an interesting encounter between the South China and the Borderers and I think that the bustling tactics of the military side should turn the tide in their favour.

EXPLOSION ABOARD BRITISH SHIP.

Five Injured At Gibraltar.

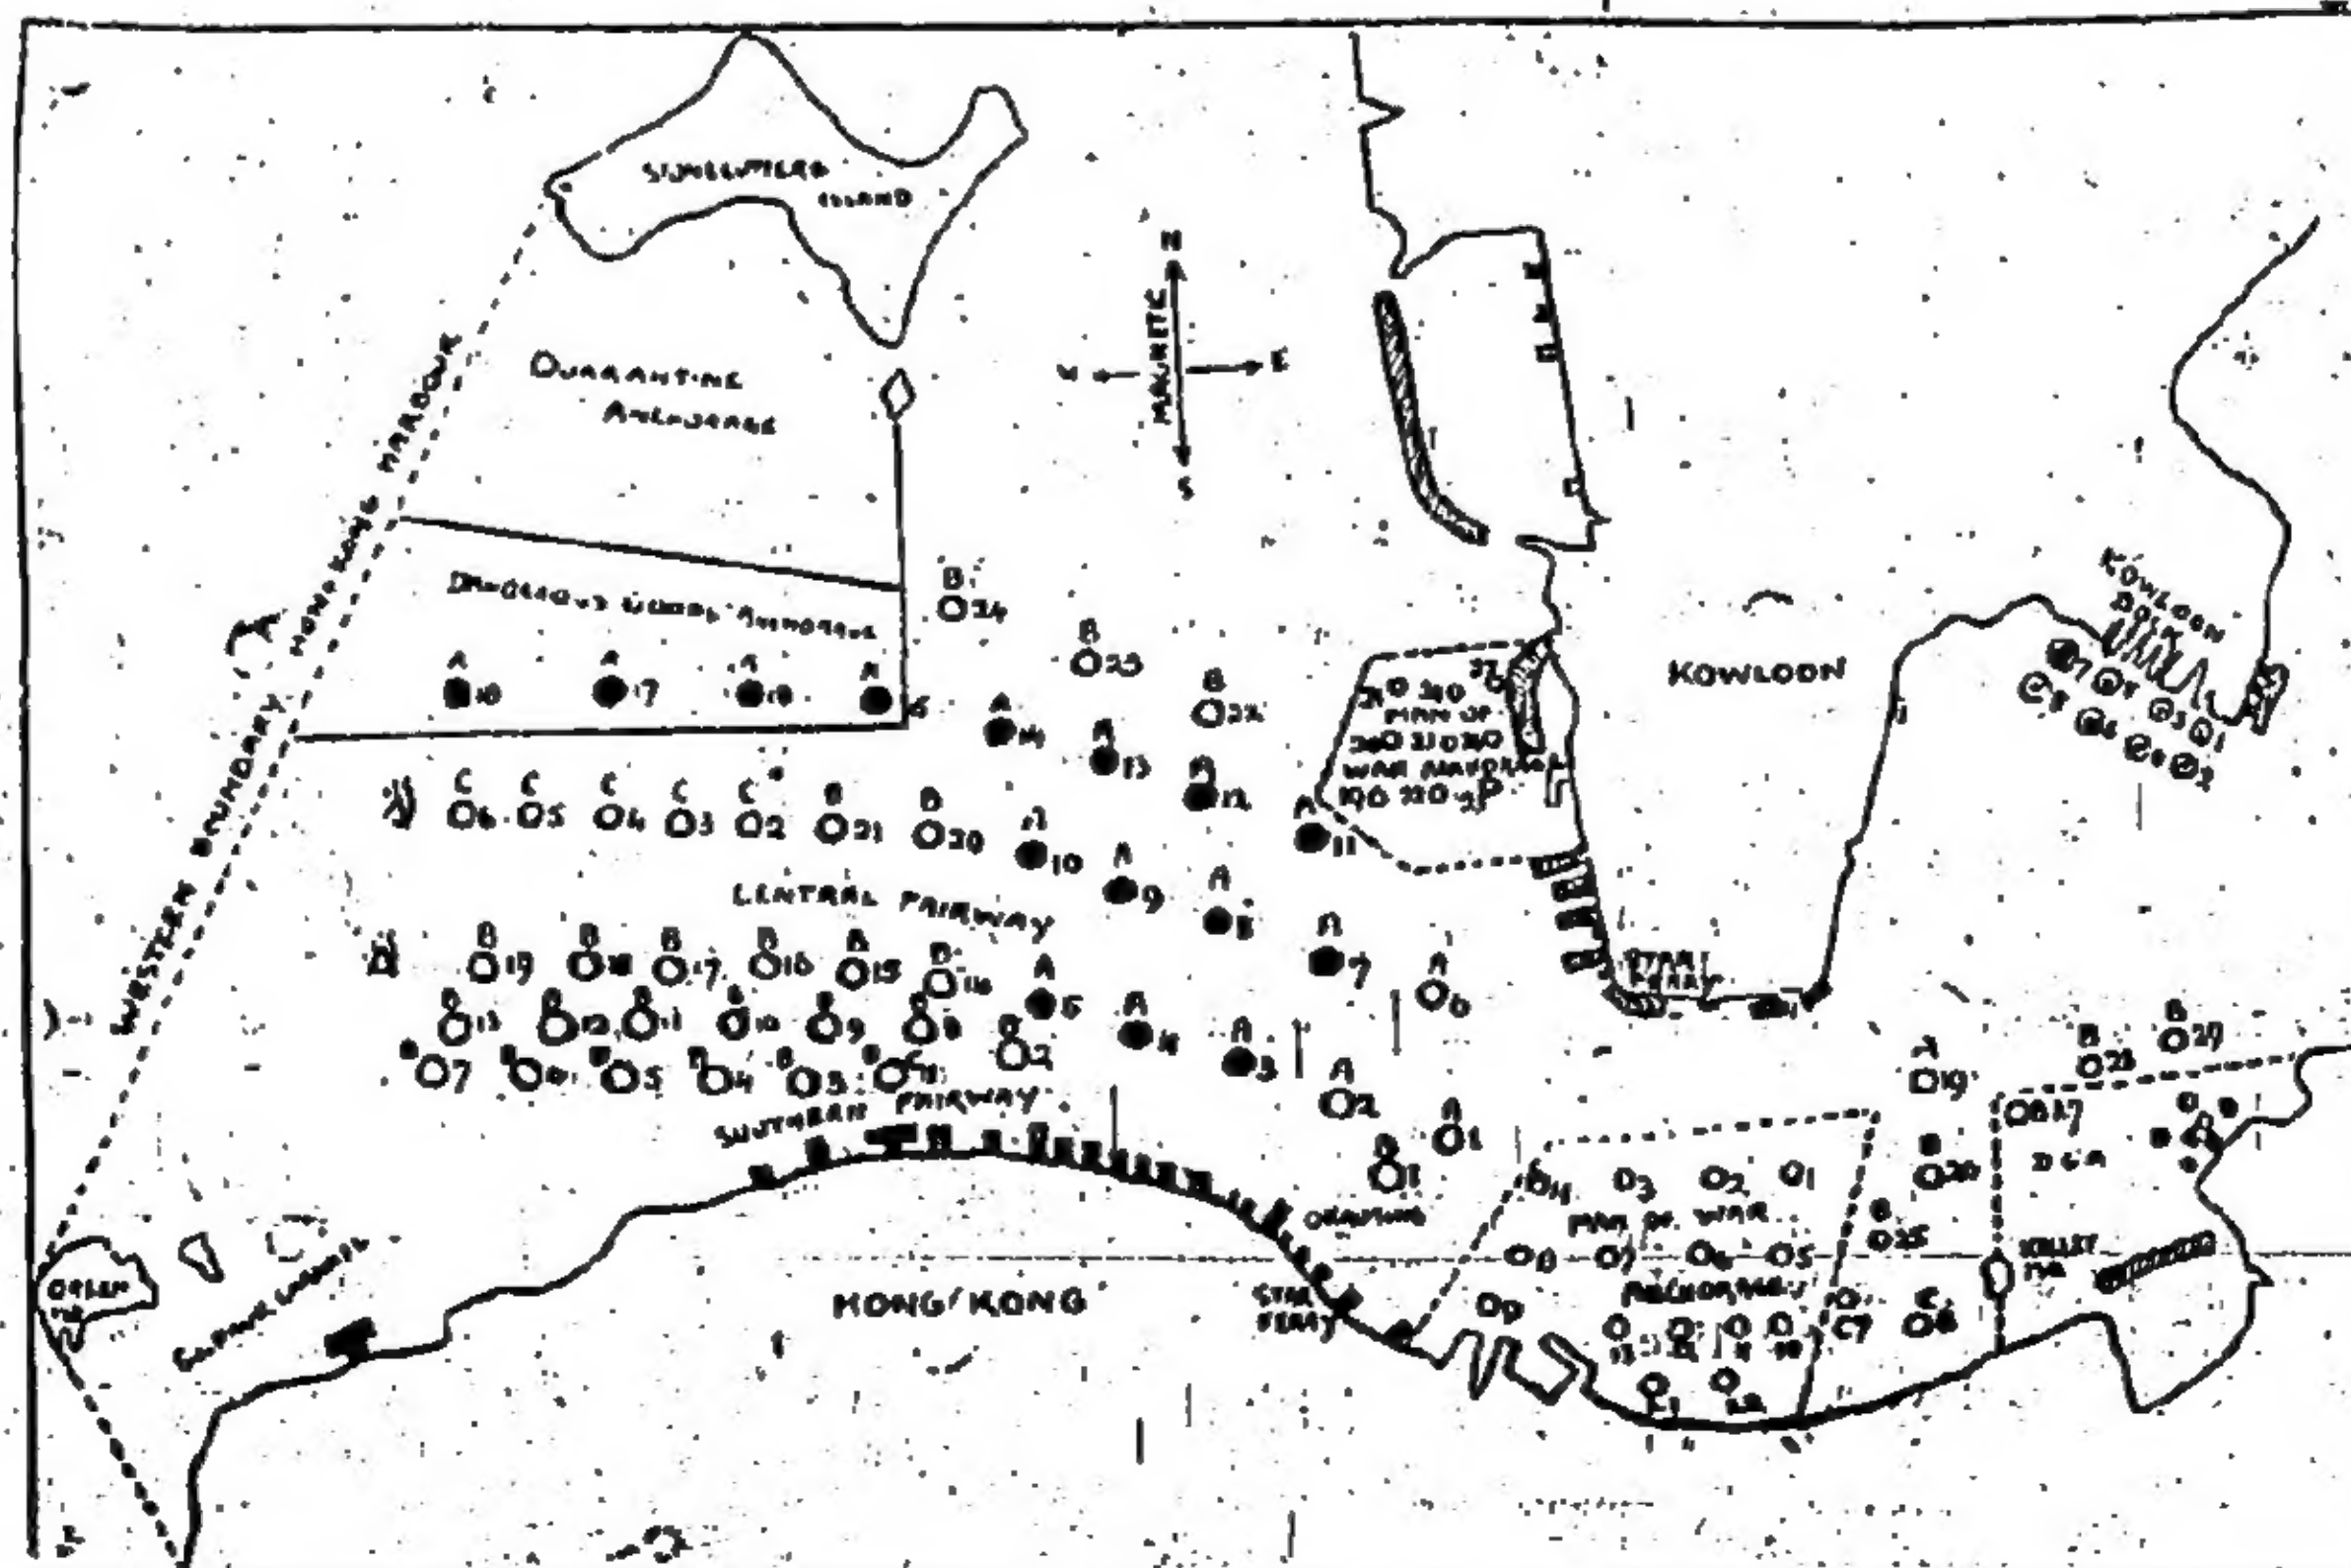

Gibraltar.
The captain and four members of the crew of the British steamer Corton (3,405 tons) were injured in an explosion and fire on board, when the vessel was about six miles from here.
The Corton was carrying a cargo of 4,650 tons of coal from Penarth (South Wales) to Marseilles, and the explosion occurred in the fore-hold.
A hatchway was blown off, and it struck Captain William Dickson, the master, who is a Sunderland man.
He fell into the hold, where the coal, by that time, was ablaze.
Members of the crew dragged him out unconscious, and some of them were burned.
A distress signal was sent out from the Corton, and salvage vessels raced from here to aid the crew in fighting the fire and getting ashore.
The port surgeon and ambulance men went aboard and treated the injured. Besides the captain, they were:—
C. Holt, of Gateshead (first engineer); J. G. Reid, of South
Shields (third engineer); G.
Weiske, of Penarth (carpenter);
and A. Brownlee, of West Hartlepool (boatswain).
The fire was soon under control, and the Corton was beached at the northern end of the harbour.
The vessel, which carries a crew of 24, belongs to Cory Collieries, Ltd., and is registered in London.

THE OIL NUISANCE.

Along the Cambrian coast birds have been found dead and dying, having been poisoned by the large quantities of ships' oil which cover the surface in parts of Cardigan Bay. Many birds have been put out of misery by visitors, their cries being pitiful to hear. The oil is stated to be laden with a particularly poisonous tar extract. The recent gales and high tides have no doubt caused the oil to be washed along the bay. The oil has also interfered with bathing along the coast.

STEAMERS' MOVEMENTS.

The m.v. Chinese Prince from New York sailed from Shanghai on November 1 afternoon, and is expected here to-morrow at daylight.

The Ben Line s.s. Benbrucan from Leith, Middlesbrough, Antwerp, London and Straits left Singapore for this port yesterday, and is due to arrive here on November 8.

The P. & O. s.s. Rajputana left Shanghai for this port on November 1 at 3.30 p.m., and is due here to-morrow at about 6 a.m.

WALLER COMMITTED TO SESSIONS.

Bribery Case Ends At Tai Po Court.

Acting Sub-Inspector H. Waller, whose trial on a charge of receiving and demanding a bribe was resumed before Mr. E. H. Williams, District Officer, at the Tai Po Magistrate's Court, after a lengthy hearing yesterday. Mr. Williams, in committing the defendant, stated that it was a case for a jury to decide. The summary hearing of the case finished at 6 p.m. yesterday, and the defendant was allowed to retain his liberty on $500 bail as before. Mr. Geo. K. Hall Brutton appeared for A. S. I. Waller.

TRAYS SET FOR BAKERS.

Acting on complaints received from Lane, Crawford Ltd., regarding series of thefts of bread and eggs from their bakery at Wanchai, Police laid a trap and succeeded in arresting two Chinese employed as bakers.

They were brought before Mr. Schofield in the Central Police Court this morning charged with the theft of a quantity of eggs. First defendant pleaded guilty taking all responsibility, but the second man denied the charge. The case was adjourned to to-morrow.

TWO FEARED DEAD IN JUNK PIRACY.

Vessels Raided In Cheung Sha Bay.

A report of a robbery on two junks, which were sailed away in different directions but subsequently recovered, reached Shum Shui Po Police Station last night, when six Chinese boatmen, who, terrorised jumped overboard in Cheung Sha Wan Bay and swam to shore, told their stories to Police officers.

Two boatmen are feared drowned. Wong Tai-lee, master of a cargo boat, reported to the Police that at 10 a.m. last night his junk was alongside another junk, when a motor boat drew near and five men boarded the craft. They threatened to bind the foks of both junks, 8 in number, who became frightened and jumped overboard. Six reached shore but two of their number apparently could not swim as well and were carried by the current.

The motor boat proceeded towards Yaumati, while both junks, laden with cargoes of sugar, were sailed away, one towards Wan Tai and the other towards Tain Wan. Both boats and the motor boat were later recovered, but the robbers are still at large.

Investigations in the case of suspected murder which was reported yesterday, in which the body of an unknown Chinese male was found in T'it Hong Lane with a large scalp wound, have revealed that death, in the doctor's opinion, was due to natural causes.

YEN 100,000 DISPUTE CONTINUES.

Chase Bank Sues Local Firm.

The proceedings at the Supreme Court in which the Yue Yau firm of Hong Kong are being sued by the Chase Bank in respect of a bill of exchange for Yen 100,000, were continued before the Chief Justice, Sir Joseph Kemp, K.C., this morning, when Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. E. Davidson, of Messrs. Hastings, Dennys and Bowley, for plaintiffs, continued his cross-examination of To Tze-yuen, managing partner of the defendant firm.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., instructed by Mr. F. H. Loseby of Messrs. Russ and Co., are appearing for the defence.

When this morning's session started, Mr. Sheldon cross-examined the witness regarding various documents.

CHINESE ESTATES ARE SETTLED.

In the goods of Woo Chung-tak, deceased, application for letters of administration has been granted to Lau Shi, his widow. Deceased, a retired cook, died in the New Territory, leaving an estate valued at $10,400.

Probate in the estate of Ho Shu, who died leaving an estate of $23,100, has been granted to Wong Chi-poh.
